Railroads Announce Dates For Excursions From City During Summer Months

30-Day Return Limit Trips to New York City Feature of Excursions Out of Marion; Niagara Falls Attracts Interest

Excursions to all points of interest in every direction from Marion have been announced by the Hocking Valley, Erie and B. & O. railroads for the remainder of the summer season. The 30-day return limit excursions to New York City and points along the Atlantic seaboard to be run by all railroads connected with the Central Passenger association will be run every Saturday out of Marion until Aug. 31.

These 30-day return limit trips are an innovation in the excursion line and their success for the rest of the summer will determine whether or not they are continued. Sympathy is not that far removed from the round trip fare for the trip being one and one-half fare. This amounts to $5.16 to New York City and return.

Prominent among the cities and pleasure resorts where stopovers are permitted are Atlantic City, Baltimore, New York, Norfolk, Va., Philadelphia and Washington, D. C.

Several 10-day excursions will be run to New York and return with a round trip ticket selling for $2.31 or $1 added to the price of a one-way ticket. Dates already announced are June 20 and July 25 with three additional dates to be announced later.

Both one-day and 10-day excursions to Niagara Falls and return have been announced by the Erie and B. & O. railroads. The Erie will run one-day excursions on July 25 and Aug. 31 with a round trip ticket costing $4. The trains will leave Marion at 7:05 p. m. on Saturday and arrive at the Falls at 6:05 a. m. on the next day. Returning it will depart for Marion at 6:00 p. m.

Three dates have been set for the 10-day excursions to the Falls. These are July 10, Aug. 6 and Aug. 20 with tickets being good on any train leaving Marion on those days. The round trip fare will be $12.02.

Chicago excursions on the Erie are scheduled for July 7, Aug. 18, Sept. 29 and Nov. 10. The fare will be $2 a round trip with the train leaving here at 1:15 a. m. and leaving Chicago for Marion at 8 p. m. the same day.

June 21 and July 1 are the dates set by the Big Four for the excursions to Cleveland and return with a round trip ticket selling for $4.55. The trains leave here at 1:15 a. m. and leave for Marion at 6:15 p. m. on the same day.

BIG FOUR TO RUN
C. M. F. SPECIAL
There will be a special Big Four train on June 20 through Marion for young men bound for the Campa Military Training Camp at Fort Benning, Harrison, Ind. Several local boys have already signed up for the special train that will start on the east coast and pick up boys bound for the camp at all towns on the route.

The train arrives in Marion at 12:30 in the afternoon and arrives at the camp at 1:30 o'clock, Central Time.

There will be no dining car on the train but individual lunches will be served through the train to the camp. Approximately 100 boys will be on the special when it reaches the Camp.

Chorus Moves to Mansfield
The Hage-back Wallace chorus moved from Warren to Mansfield last night over the Erie railroad. The chorus will give performances in Mansfield today the night show starting at 8:15 o'clock.

Miller Brothers 101 ranch advertising car arrived in Ashland yesterday where the show will be presented on June 20. The car will go to Kenton over the Erie railroad tonight on June 20. The show will be presented in Kenton on July 1.

Railway Briefs
A H. Koonm dispatcher in the Erie office here is on a two weeks vacation.

A hotel restaurant in New York is housed in a steel vault formerly used by a bank. The walls, floor and ceiling are 10 inches thick. On the outside they are tempered with steel plates and the remainder consists of brick of concrete and more steel. The floor weighs forty tons.

For a dry throat tickling, cough mix equal parts of honey and lemon juice and keep it handy by the bedside. This will soothe the throat and cut off the coughing.

WILMES-LEWIS SUIT
OPENS HERE TODAY

Defendant Takes Stand in $10,000 Damage
Action

The $10,000 damage suit brought against Mrs. Ralph A. Lewis by Pelen Wilmes opened in common pleas court. The case is expected to go to the jury late this afternoon.

When the court recessed at noon attorneys for the plaintiff had examined all their witnesses and Mrs.
Lewis had taken the stand in defence.

The plaintiff is represented by Attorney Russell E. Wilhelm and Attorney Kenneth A. Robinson. The firm of Clark & Arter represents Mrs. Lewis.

The suit is the outgrowth of an automobile accident which occurred at the intersection of the Marion Edison and Columbus Sandusky rds, July 30 1925.

AIRPLANE AGENCIES
MUST BUILD HANGAR

Committee Acts On Application For Use of Marion Airport

Sales agencies for airplanes may be established at the municipal airport here if the manufacturers erect a suitable hangar, which will become the property of the city at the end of five years. This is the gist of a decision reached last night by the airport committee in considering a request for an action here for the Swallow airplane made at Spencer, O.

The specifications for the hangar as specified by the committee calls for at least a 60 by 60 by 14 building to be of steel construction. If not used by the company for the five year period it automatically becomes the property of the city of Marion.

What is done prior to it is something that depends on man and takes the main glory out of him.

225 AT MEETING OF FARM BUREAU

L. B. Palmer, State President, Gives Principal Address at Claridon

About 225 members and their families attended the second quarterly county-wide meeting of the Marion County Farm Bureau held last night in the Claridon township school. A buffet lunch at 7:30 o'clock preceded the meeting.

The main address was given by L. B. Palmer, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation. He talked on the necessity of cooperation between the various county Farm Bureau organizations of the state and how quickly the local bureau had advanced since its start several years ago.

The program was in charge of the Green Camp and Grand Prairie township Farm Bureau organizations. Music during the program was furnished by the Grand Prairie orchestra under the direction of Tom Thew. Floyd Uncepher, president of the Marion County Farm Bureau, gave an opening address concerning the work of the Bureau during the past year and its prospects for the future. The audience sang "America," the singing being led by Paul G. Smith, agent for the Marion County Farm Bureau.

Two readings followed the community singing. They were "When Company Comes" by Mrs. Ruth Berrier and "Home" by Mrs. Vena Ruth.

Following Mr. Palmer's address a quartet from Green Camp sang a number of popular songs and gave a short black face comedy sketch. The quartet composed of Harry George, superintendent of the Green Camp school, Roy S. Lovell, vocational agriculture instructor in Green Camp high school, Floyd Uncepher and George Scherizer, distributor of Farm Bureau commodities.

Read M. Wintzendorfer of Marion concluded the meeting with a talk on community organization of Farm Bureau members.

Substitutes Trip For Monday Luncheon at Hotel Harding

Sixteen children, mostly from the Crippled Children's school, began a 10-day vacation at Camp Uhlir, near Hepburn, last night made possible by the Marion Rotary club.

The children were taken to the camp by Rotarians, who substituted an evening at camp for their regular Monday luncheon at Hotel Harding.

After a meal at the camp, the children were taken boating, while most of the club members played recreation ball. No formal meeting was held, although several members gave short talks.

Two teachers will have charge of the camp during the 10-day vacation for the children. Daily schedules of camp activity will be carried out. The camp is said to be well equipped and recently improved by the addition of a building and painting other structures and boats.

Asbury Evangelist Attacks Selfishness

"Not only because of the other person's need, but to realize our own best selves, we must take the attitude of neighborliness and love toward all men and overcome our greatest sin—selfishness," the Rev. C. H. Fowler, evangelist at Asbury M. E. church declared last night.

Stereopticon slides showing the influence of the Bible on men throughout the world, were presented at the close of the short sermon. Wednesday night slides of a trip through America will be shown, and on Friday night, a trip around the world will be taken by showing the slides.

Each afternoon Mrs. Fowler conducts a period of Bible and missionary stories for the boys and girls of the congregation. These stories are illustrated by stereopticon slides.

You can make a good night-light by packing salt round the wick of an ordinary candle, leaving just enough of the wick to light.

Most moral uplifts start from irritation. A group of men become so indignant at something that they start a movement to get a law.

Some "service" to which men devote themselves seems to it that it is well paid.

Argentina has prohibited the importation of corn or seed corn to prevent the possible introduction of the corn borer.

A good fresh herring or mackerel contains sufficient protein and fat for a whole meal.

Daily Proverb—"He that boasts of his own knowledge, proclaims his ignorance."

We are told by a London cable that MacDonald and Davies, during the latter's short visit with the former, mapped out a new naval pact. Some fast workers, we'll say, if the statement can be verified.

Americans may be glad that Lindbergh reached Paris before the Yellow Kid of the Yellow Bird, for otherwise the French might assume that the youth of America is made up of unprincipled buffoons.

The papers refer to the room used by that Ohio State professor and the 112 girl previous to her murder as a "love nest," but the text rather goes to show that it was something in the nature of a lust nest.

"What the criminal law needs," says William J. Donovan, "is not teeth, but brains." But, William, you know without being told how little chance there is to corner brains for enforcement under the operation of the primary system.

The vaudeville people who are offering the slowaway on the Yellow Bird real money to appear in their theaters possibly do not realize that they are offering a premium on razors.

A citizen of Chicago was hit by a stray bullet just as he was stepping out of his bathtub. One might wonder why any Chicagoan should voluntarily quit the only comparatively safe place in his home, but maybe it's going too far to expect Chicagoans to spend all their time in their bathtubs.

New York thugs bent up the assistant treasurer of a Forty-Sixth street theater just off Broadway and got away with between $6,000 and $7,000. There no longer can be doubt. New York has contracted Chicagoitis in violent form.

On his arrival at New York, last week, on the Transylvania, Wilbur Glenn Voliva told dock reporters that he was back from a trip "half way around" the world. Can it be that Wilbur has abandoned the pancake theory?

From Washington comes announcement that President Hoover will steer a middle course in the tariff fight. Steering half way between the house and the senate in the tariff matter is going to remove all danger that he may collide with either. We can not recall when they were ever before so far apart.

The member of the Virginia anti-Smith committee of ten who wired Mrs. Hoover that her son to the wife of the negro congressman from Chicago cost the Republican party in Virginia not less than 25,000 votes seemingly forgot that Mr. Hoover is the president of all the people of the United States, even though the whites of Virginia do refuse to permit the blacks of that state to exercise their constitutional right of suffrage.

We Like the Murphy Initiative.

We like the initiative shown by Mayor Emory Murphy in getting together the representatives of the public utilities serving the city looking to the elimination of the many chuck holes, which mar the appearance and the full enjoyment of our paved streets, and the repairing of the sidewalks in places where they have been left in dangerous condition as the result of the removal of poles for overhead wire systems.

There are said to be 175 chuck holes in the paved streets of Marion. We are frank to say that we never counted them, but we are satisfied from driving over the paved streets that that estimate is wholly conservative. They should have been looked after—many of them at least—years ago, but it is something that we are not the view of some of our city authorities of the past that attention to such matters came within the scope of their duties. In an event, the depressions in the paving have not been repaired, despite instructions from council to that end.

What is everybody's business has been nobody's business, hence the very commendable plan of the present mayor to get the representatives of the public utilities together and have them talk the matter over and decide among themselves where the responsibility for this or that hole rested, with the understanding that each utility would correct the trouble for which it was responsible.

It is good to know that the utilities have met the mayor half way, and we have the promise that the defective street repairs will be remedied within the next two weeks, making possible the successful use of the newly-purchased street sweeper.

Frankly, we like the way in which Mayor Murphy proceeded in this matter, and we commend the spirit in which the public utility people met his invitation. We can not do other than look upon the outcome of last Saturday night's meeting as a happy augury for the future.

New York's New Motor Law.

There is much which may be said in commendation of New York's new automobile responsibility law, which will go into effect September 15 of the present year. It has all the earmarks of legislation which will have a tendency to curb reckless driving, and at the same time afford financial protection to those who may suffer injury as a result of its violation.

Under the provisions of the law, any motorist who may figure in an accident, in the event that he is found guilty of fast or reckless driving, or driving while under the influence of intoxicants, or driving away from the scene of an accident in which he is involved without making report of it, must set up proof of his ability to satisfy a judgment which may be rendered against him up to $5,000 for the injury of one person, and $10,000 in case more than one is injured and also up to $1,000 for property damage. Inability on his part to meet these requirements will result in the revoking of his license as a driver and the cancellation of the registration of his car.

There is another very important provision of the law. In case a judgment is rendered against a motorist in a civil suit growing out of an automobile accident, even though he has not been guilty of fast or reckless driving, driving while intoxicated or skirting an accident and driven away without reporting it to the authorities, his driving license is suspended under the law until he meets the judgment and establishes proof, by filing a bond, making a cash deposit or taking out an insurance policy to the same end, that he will be financially responsible for any damage he may occasion in any future accident or accidents to which he may be a party.

The new Empire state law, it may be noted, avoids the defects of the Massachusetts compulsory insurance law which is held responsible for much of the traffic chaos which has obtained in that state since its enactment, and places the expense, responsibility and punishment on the reckless and incompetent driver, where it properly belongs.

And it may be further noted that it does away with another objection which has been offered against some proposed legislation and some already enacted. It obviates the possibility of the charge that it bars the man of humble means who is operating a cheap car which has had a long and varied line of owners. The man with the $15 car is not barred from the highway until he transgresses in the way mentioned or has had a judgment rendered against him as the outcome of a motor accident for damages which he has occasioned which he refuses or is unable to make good.

Some people will be inclined to feel that those in charge of the most costly institution maintained by the state could profitably give a little more time and study to the choice of its professors.

Lord Cecil says he believes "in military experts being on top, but not on top." If Lord Cecil has been reading the magazines, he should appreciate the fact that there is no ground for fear that the views of the military experts will become intransigent.

The psychology department of George Washington university is preparing to study the fatigue experienced by those who ride in motor cars with the idea of overcoming it. One way to overcome it might be to force them to get out and walk with us two air-torners of the lung and get the benefit of the exercise forced upon us.

Manlio Rothschild, wealthy middle-aged Chicagoan, has been sued for $250,000 for alleged breach of promise by Vera McCord, film actress. In this day and age, it's mighty dangerous for a man unencumbered in a domestic way to let it be known that he has money.

Italy's new chamber of deputies, which convened May 1, is expected to adjourn Thursday, despite the fact that it has set a new record for the volume and scope of legislative labors accomplished in the last six weeks. After all, maybe what the legislative branch of our government needs for what's ailing it is a dictator.

"The Temple of Peace," says David Lloyd George, "is being built of paper—adorned, frescoed, glittering—but paper." If we get David correctly, it is being constructed from the same material as the "Temple of Discord," of which he was one of the constructors, at Versailles. And it's still hanging on like a veritable "Old Man of the Sea" in the vexation of the world.

Charges have been made before the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church, in session in Pittsburgh, that the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America has exceeded its chartered authority in accepting contributions from improper sources, and the United Presbyterians are urged to sever connections with the Federal council. Considering some of the uses to which the Federal council has been put, the Presbyterians shouldn't mind a little thing like that.

Booth Tarkington says that "knowledge is a fine thing, but if it goes toward making an intellectual snob, it defeats its purpose." Tut, tut, Booth! We never imagined that an old hand like you would fall for the publicity-seeking stunt of that Massachusetts technology school professor.

Now we are told that, while the coal guard patrol has chartered new icebergs this spring than in any year since the Titanic went down, the bergs are not of such size as to justify the fear that they will not melt before reaching the southern steamship lane which North Atlantic liners are now following. We are glad on account of those who are going to Europe this year, but the assurance comes too late to be of benefit to us personally, as we have arranged to spend our two weeks off on pay differently.

"DOCTOR, I THOUGHT YOU'D NEVER COME!"

Improve the Teeth.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

In North America, more than in any other part of the world, the teeth are given a lot of attention. I shall not admit that they have enough care, but we do better than they do across the ocean.

In England I was struck by the general neglect of these useful and beauty-giving organs. I am sure it is not a mere coincidence that so many observers note the same thing.

It is a pity that anywhere there should be neglect of a part of the body so important. Without sound teeth the food is not chewed as it should be.

But it does not end here. If there is continued neglect the teeth become abscessed and the gums are bathed in pus. This evil substance is absorbed into the system and then there is real trouble.

And more, the medical profession is pointing out the bad effects of pus infection. Rheumatism, heart disease and many obscure ailments can be traced to such sources. Diseases of the kidneys and other serious afflictions, are thought to be made worse, if not actually caused, by pus infection.

There are many factors involved in a study of the ways and wherefore of bad teeth. I do not care to discuss the possible effect of heredity upon the quality of the teeth.

You know I am inclined to believe that we are "bugged" to the teeth or faults of our ancestors. I must admit, of course, that a few more ailments may be founded on heredity. In general, however, we can overcome the bad inheritance and through our own efforts sweep aside the shackles of birth. Let's not worry about our grandparents. There is one thing we do get from our parents. I refer to the early teaching in matters of personal hygiene. We eat, sleep, exercise and bathe as we were taught in childhood. We should make sure for ourselves that we can not do better than they did.

Improper feeding has much to do with the development of bad teeth. There used to be a disease, not much seen now, known as scurvy. Sailors, prisoners, inmates of asylums and others confined to limited quarters and fed on unsuitable food had scurvy. Thanks to better food and advanced knowledge we escape that old-fashioned ailment.

But we have now what we may call "hidden scurvy." If the mother's food is deficient or of wrong quality while the baby is being nursed there may be established in the infant such defects that the teeth, when they come, are not normal. A well-balanced diet will do away with this danger.

The teeth must be kept clean. No matter whether it is the youngster with his first teeth or the grown-up, it is essential that cleanliness be maintained. Sticky, sweet food will lodge between the teeth. There is ferment, acids are made, and the surface of the tooth is softened. Repeated day after day and night after night, what results? The beginning of a cavity is formed.

The teeth are too precious to neglect. Begin now to take the best care of your possessions.

"Have you brought many people to your way of thinking?"

"No," answered Senator Sorghum. "Public opinion is something like a mule. I owned when I was a boy. In order to keep up the appearance of being driver I had to watch the way he was going and follow on behind."

"Did you win the beauty contest?"

"I did not enter," said Miss Cayenne. "In this changeable and chilly weather I preferred to retain a reasonable amount of clothing."

"A man should try to mind his own business."

"Can't be done," said Mr. Dustin Stax. "After you have minded it for a little while, you will find a chain store promoter minding it better than you do, with a view to taking it over."

Editorial Opinion.

OLD AIM, NEW TACTICS.

The personalities who run things in Moscow may or may not be justified in their expectation that the new labor government in London will straightway recognize their regime. Perhaps it will, although on the other hand, Mr. MacDonald is a canny Scotchman before he is a Socialist, and he has no sympathy with Communism.

However, the Bolshevik publicists are registering optimism, and are endeavoring to create a little extra atmosphere by deftly disseminating the suggestion that in case Great Britain does take their regime by the hand, the United States will follow its example and likewise recognize Moscow. Which is another thing again.

There is no sign in the sky that foreshadows American recognition of the Red outfit in either the near or the middle future, and it is certain that when Washington acts, if ever it does, recognition will be extended regardless of what other nations may have done or refrained from doing. This country will not follow anybody's trail.

Nor do we think that present developments on the economic side should at all lead the American government to adopt an indulgent mood in listening to recognition propaganda.

For some years Moscow tried to bulldoze and seduce Washington into opening up diplomatic relations by first threatening to do its trading elsewhere, and then by handing out bait in the form of glowing promises of what it would do if this country would only accept its edicts, bloody hand. Those tactics having scored a zero, the Bolsheviks found have tried a reversal of tactics and now are leading over themselves to do business with the United States, announcing with great ostentation the closing of each new contract.

To a certain extent the tendency to grant concessions and give opportunities to American concerns is unquestionably a reaction to necessity on the part of the Reds. But the motives of these gentry generally are as mixed as their mental processes. It is to be hoped that concerns building plants and granting credits in Sovietland are so bound by something more durable than paper promises and contracts and that they have cash in advance. Otherwise some of them may find that it is easier to get into Russia whole than it is to get out. For they are dealing with thieves and crooks. And there is just a possibility that in the back of the heads of Stalin et al. exists an idea that when the time comes, a blue-ribbon forcing recognition from the United States may be found in the involvement of American interests within their area of deception. Blackmail on a national scale has been tried before this.—Detroit Free Press.

FOCH URGED A ARMISTICE.

The legend that President Wilson forced the armistice with Germany upon the unwilling commanders of the Allies is finally set at rest by Dr. Charles Seymour in the current number of the Yale Review. Dr. Seymour was not only the editor of the House papers, but also chief of the Austro-Hungarian division of the American peace commission; and he speaks with authority. The decision was left with the commanders themselves. It is already known that Foch insisted no more blood be shed. He would have had the sentiment of the French people behind him if he had urged a march upon Berlin. But as a soldier he had known too much of the horrors of war to wish to prolong them.

Official records further show that Foch and Bliss agreed with Foch, although Bliss wished for more stringent terms. Haig was for leniency. Pershing alone opposed an armistice and advocated a continuation of the offensive. Perhaps he has not been sorry since that he was overruled. It is easy to understand his attitude. He had the freshest troops, and he naturally felt that the victory could not be too complete. Yet every one will agree now that Foch was right. No doubt Wilcox took the same view; but the theory that he insisted it upon the commanders must now go glimmering like other theories that time has disproved.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Twenty Years Ago.

It was Friday, June 18, 1900.

The Star told of the election, the night before, of a new board of directors of the Marion Commercial club made up of C. E. Sawyer, D. R. Crissinger, J. E. Phillips, O. S. Rapp, C. C. Stoltz, G. B. Scofield, B. P. Sweney and Wallace W. Wilson.

The marriage of Miss Clara Mabel Griffin and Paul Holmes Bolander at the home of the bride in Plant City, Florida, the night before, was reported by the Star.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Broadbeck, of South Grand avenue.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, June 18.—The so-called "Long Island test set" is now hitting on all cylinders and the verandas and terraces are littered with fashionable gate-crashers. Society hostesses are reaping the fashionable harvest, and ambitious hostesses angle for celebrities as guests.

It is unfair to label all Long Island residents as members of the loose-living crowds frequenting its north and south shores. Some of the most representative families of the metropolis have vast estates there. But like the magnificent ocean liner, it does attract barnacles.

Leading the pack of professional spongers are those white-flannelled boys who hibernated in ball bedrooms all winter, but with summer escape on their pillimages of polite pillage as week-end enthusiasts. They are distinct types of hand-biting and well-bred wastrels.

They are perfectly willing to dance attendance upon maiden aunts, chronic wallflowers and poor cousins from the outland in exchange for a room, the freedom of the tennis court and cocktail shaker. It reduces living to the irreducible minimum. They do not even have to buy cigarettes.

Too, there is usually the fashionably-dressed and designing grass widow. A halo of mystery surrounds her and she earns out of all the men while her buoyant young sisters snarl: "But, my dear, she is so obvious." The widow, incidentally, is schooled in refined cold-shouldering.

The silly ass types of the musical comedy twitter about, also the literary lions who write screeds that never see print. They are the gleaming hangers-on who go through the entire season in the amiable and inexpensive manner of the cultured boomer. Nice boys!

Every summer place is a haven for a rowdy old matron, touched by gout or a rheumatic ache, who can swear like a male driver, smoke little black cheroots and gulp eye-witness out a chaser. She is the forgotten dowager type through whose veneer of hardness is the trace of early culture.

No word along Broadway has such a picturesque patina of worldliness as "Yeah." It is a yawn from the underworld and voiced by a crook has more stinging sarcasm than a page of vitriolic epithets. There are a dozen inflections, each with many meanings. It is frequently flung at cops by the cornered criminal. "I've a notion to croak you, you rat!" snarls the cop. "Yeah," draws the prisoner—meaning: "You're afraid, you coward!"

It would appear there is enough dangerous crime, horrendous without sending police-women on the streets to angle for flirtatious men. Most any man is liable to indulge a harmless flirtation if provoked by a smiling lady and to hale him to court and subsequent disgrace is not good cricket.

One of the happiest marriages I know resulted from a casual flirtation. A lady caught under a canopy by a sudden shower was approached by a gentleman whose automobile was at the curb. He chanced a flirtation and volunteered to take her home. He developed they had mutual friends, and later met more conventionally. Their wedded life has been ideal.

The Charm of the Fish.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISE.

It seems to be an accepted adage that a good fisherman is a good man. At any rate, he has many of the mental traits of a good man. He is patient, he is considerate, a good fisherman will always throw back a venturesome little fishes that are too small to furnish legitimate sport, and he will do it gently, too. He is also an optimist, a man of faith and of endless powers of expectation. The world is better for the presence of such men.

Among our contemporaries on the earth, the fish holds a peculiar place because he inhabits a part of the world that we can not enter; he lives side by side with us, yet separated by a transparent partition, through which neither can pass and live. Where a fish is brought up into our world he is as complete a stranger among us as if he had come from a different planet. He possesses unfamiliar beauties; of form of color, and of motion. He excites our curiosity and admiration in new ways, as would an inhabitant of Venus. The thrill that goes through the nerves of the fisherman at the first tug of his line, the quick struggle, and then the emergence into sight of the shivering armor of the defeated paladin of the water world, is an experience which never loses its unique charm.

In H. D. Thoreau's delightful story of his adventures in the Maine woods there is a passage that no fisherman can read without thrilled. The party had arrived in the dense forest near the foot of a mountain and camped for the night on the shore of the Abolackneag—a clear, cold stream. Their guide advised them to get fish for supper, which advice proved so sound that in a little while they had white chivins, silvery roaches and speckled trout falling about them among the bushes on the shore, "in a perfect shower."

"In the night," continues Thoreau, "I dreamed of trout fishing and when at length I awoke it seemed a fable that this painted fish swam there so near my couch, as near to our hooks last evening, and I doubted if I had not dreamed it all. So I arose before dawn to test its truth, while my companions were still sleeping. There stood Mr. Kladan with distinct and cloudless outline in the moonlight and the rippling of the rapids was the only sound to break the stillness. Standing on the shore, I once more cast my line into the stream and found the dream to be real and the fable true. The speckled trout and silvery roach like flying-fish sped swiftly through the moonlight air, describing bright arcs on the dark side of Kladan, until moonlight now fading into daylight brought satire to my mind and the minds of my companions who had joined me."

The fascination of fish stories never fails. It holds even readers who perhaps never in their lives caught even a minnow or a red snapper. The whole fishery was once the world's widest field of romantic adventure. The great sea-fishes, and the battles that they afford, yet draw men with the fisherman's instinct with an irresistible lure. Where the wonders and beauties of nature display so lavishly as in a great aquarium, played so near as in a great aquarium, especially where the doulzans and tropical seas abound? There are regions of the earth, among the coral archipelagoes, which are immense open aquariums stocked by nature herself.

I read the other day a review of H. R. Fowler's "Fishes of Oceania." It is a technical book, but I think I could wade through it with pleasure because of the mental pictures suggested of "the vivid coloration and variety" of those fishes of the Arabian sea, the Indian ocean, the Bay of Bengal, the China sea, of the East Indies, the West Indies, Australia, New Guinea, the Philippines, etc., which gave the early explorers and the navigators sensations comparable in novelty with those received from the strange aspects of the southern heavens and the unique beauties of nature among the magic islands of the tropic seas.

It was a kindness of Providence to make the great waters a world of life contemporary with, yet unlike our own.—Copyright, 1920, International Feature Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

It is not normal to lie. The knowledge that one is lying is a knowledge that is not true, that he has been building up a defense for the purpose of concealing the truth is weakening to self-respect. The constant necessity of concealing something provides a serious drain on the nervous system and on the health in general. Many ailments which even physicians find it hard to diagnose are really nothing but the continuing result of the habit of deception. The nervous system can stand a great deal, but prolonged insincerity and prolonged deception put a heavy load upon it.

New York newspapers recently printed the following letter from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to Cardinal Hayes: "I have seen in the newspapers a campaign is being conducted this week on behalf of the Catholic charities of the archdiocese of New York. Although I feel that this work has a claim on the citizens of New York regardless of religious faith. In trying to meet human needs and make life happier for our fellow-men we are all of us, Catholics, Protestants and Jews alike, serving a common cause."

It is a little like this, showing the spirit of man, free and unsolicited, working on his levels, that gives all thoughtful citizens a great hope for civilization.

A comparatively few years ago a man in a middle-western town hired a woman at an hourly wage to attend his motion-picture show. He thought if a woman could be seen freely going in and coming out of a picture show, this new and almost untold form of entertainment might develop into a respectable enterprise. This manager had a sound idea and a genius for publicity.

Today the investment in the motion-picture industry amounts to a billion and three-quarters of dollars. Annual admission receipts amount to more than $750,000,000. It is said that 100,000,000 persons attend 20,000 theaters in this country each week.

Some weeks ago a newspaperman talked by wireless telephone from an airplane on his way to his New York office. Since then another correspondent has for the first time telephoned a dispatch from a train moving at more than fifty miles an hour.

There are apparently no barriers to the transmission of news which can not be overcome. These new facilities, amazing in their possibilities, make it increasingly important that those who write or talk have something to say.

THREE FLIERS BEING IDOLIZED BY PARIS

PARIS, June 18—Idolized by all Paris, Jean Assolant, Henri Lefevre and Armand Lottit, the first French aviators to fly across the Atlantic, continued today on a seemingly endless round of ovations, receptions and welcome ceremonies.

With them went Arthur Schreiber, the "transatlantic hobo" who invited himself along on the flight of the Yellow Bird with hopes of gaining fame and fortune.

The three fliers have made the stowaway one of them and insist upon his accompanying them everywhere. Nevertheless, although many admire the Portland youth for his audacity, he is admitted to most of the welcoming functions on sufferance only.

This was pointedly apparent at receptions tendered the aviators yesterday at the Aero club of France and at the American embassy. Schreiber was present at both and treated politely but otherwise ignored.

At the Aero club, Assolant was presented with the club's gold medal and Lefevre with a bronze medal. Pierre Etienne Flandin, former minister of aviation and president of the club, enquired all three fliers in a speech. At the American embassy, Charge d'affaires Norman Armour also enquired the fliers but made no mention of Schreiber.

Schreiber is still wearing a suit of Lottit's supplemented by a hat and shoes donated by two Paris shops. He is living at Lottit's father's hotel where he is accorded every possible comfort and convenience and treated very hospitably.

Young Schreiber was received today at the French air ministry, where he spent some time describing the flight to M. Laurent Eynac, air minister.

It gives a hard finish that spurns dirt and sheds water—and is not slippery. On motor cars it protects the finish, for oil and gasoline do not affect it. And just a going-over with a damp cloth will clean the car. On linoleum it makes unnecessary the use of soap. On woodwork and furniture and floors it is both a protection and an enhancement of a fine finish. It leaves no bluish cast or bloom. Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

The Kiss and Run Lover

"Modern art," says the stand. They demand so much more of a girl these days. At first she is not Oh, no, men have NOT changed. Men are running strictly true to form.

Men have always been as serious as women forced them to be—and as irresponsible as women permit it to be.

Men have always taken as much from a woman as she would give and given as little in return as she demanded. Why shouldn't they?

Men have always had the impulse to make love lightly. Your great-grandfather had a fine patriarchal little son, about the lover who kissed and rode away. The kiss and run lover is as old as Adam.

Men have always wanted to see a girl's face-making. But men have changed.

If anybody has changed it is women. It is woman who has changed the changing fashions in dress, manners and love-making, ever since Eve changed the first universal costume and the first place of residence.

Men like the rock of Gibraltar is a process of geological formation—ad as far as his natural instincts and impulses go he has not changed one jot or tittle since the first Great Tower sprung from tree to tree in search of coconut amusement and adventure.

If you are looking for somebody who holds a woman's kisses at a higher valuation than she put on them herself, you are not looking for a man. You are looking for a miracle.

Taking the run of the mill men a good bad or indifferent, just as they always were. There are more good ones than bad ones and more ideal fellows than ever.

But there are few Saint Anthonys among them. Men do not DEMAND being. They simply TAKE it because they can get it so easily and plentifully—and freely. Did you ever see any fruit left on the branches as hung over the fence?

With the clock all laid out on a table and a "Help yourself" sign are there would you expect a small boy to restrain his appetite for sweets? And with girls all around him will he be loved, adored and forgotten tomorrow? do you expect a man to be a Calahad?

It is woman who has set the strain in love-making, and if she doesn't let them she can change them tomorrow. Men will always follow her lead.

Chorus Girls Work? Gosh, No! It's the Men Who Suffer From the Heat

BY HALLIE HOUCK
Marion Star Staff Writer

"In the chorus and cool off your summer!"

They should turn out to be a chorus after people find out that girls who dance in the chorus are as cool as the proverbial cucumber all the time doing their work.

They wear and get a story on the hard working chorus girl on these hot summer days," quoth my editor, referring to Hank's "Sunshine Revue" at the Grand theater this week.

Not more than six dances do the girls do, and these six are in exceedingly heavy two-piece georgette and velvet costumes.

Several of the headresses are elaborate affairs, much beplumed and tinselled, but outside of these, there isn't a thing heavy about the girls' wearing apparel. Nothing to worry about getting dusty as the skirts sweep the ground, or the blouses wear out at the elbows.

Why Heat?

There was one specialty girl on the bill, and another expected Tuesday morning from Chicago. The other 11 girls do Tiller dancing and background work.

Heat! Nothing to get hot about except the brevity of the costumes.

Off the dirt, hot sidewalks, into the coolness of the theater, especially cool backstage, with the outer door opening and closing at intervals.

The show is on.

Chorus girls, comedians who crack-wise about the time the husband left for Atlantic City on a two months' stay and wifely took advantage of the opportunity, the boy with the big hass, fiddle, and other attractions of varied interest and importance.

Then the chorus!

Costuming in the show is better than the average, because of the quality of the materials used, although not much of the material is necessary.

And then for a swim.

The heaviest costume worn, but by no means the most congealing, was an outfit consisting of extremely large bonnet-shaped hats, narrow bust straps and tight over-which heavy cretonne skirts, split in the front and caught up at the sides, were worn.

Chorus girls bat in warm weather? Why should they be. On the stage for two or three minutes in the briefest of costumes, no acrobatic or even strenuous straight dancing, and off again to the dressing rooms.

Six times in an afternoon, and then away they go to swim, play tennis or knock a golf ball for several curves.

If anyone should ask you, it's the men, with their singing and strenuous bippity-hopping and sliding and acrobatics over the stage who have the warm time in the theater during the summer season.

And the girls admit themselves, that they have a good time, enjoy their work and more than enjoy the hours of leisure they have.

Lutherans 7, Lee Street 6 (seven innings)
Christians 7, Presbyterians 6 (ten innings)
Ashbury 7, Reformed 3
Forest Lawn 3, U. B. 1

BY BOB ELLIOTT

ONE by one the ranks of the unbeaten in the recreation baseball leagues are thinning out and today exactly one team out of the 32 in the city keeps a slate unblemished from defeat. The latest of the proud to taste the stigma of defeat was Lee Street, which was sailing full speed ahead until it met the Lutherans yesterday at Lincoln Park. The Lee Streeters did not go down until after 11 long innings but today they find themselves just one game ahead of the fast stepping Ashbury and Christian whom which are tied for second position.

The final score of the Lee Street-Lutheran game was 7-6, with the winners scoring two runs in the first half of the 11th on one hit. Lee Street came back and scored one run but with the tying run on base could not quite make the grade. The winners were out, 11 to 9 but Koehnepfer was at bat with his hit in the pinches. Blahazek received some atrocious support from the Lee Street infield.

Presbyterians sent Christians to ten frames before losing out, 7 to 6. The score was tied up at the end of the seventh, 5 all and in the first half of the 10th the winners scored two runs on a single bludge. The losers came back to score one run but couldn't squeeze another one across. Minard led the hitters with three doubles.

United Brethren took another one on the square when Forest Lawn won 3 to 1 behind some excellent hitting by Bob Deaton. The winners got to Zumpert for all of their runs in the sixth frame.

Ashbury won hands down from Reformed, shoving the latter nine deeper into the loop cellar. Johnny Cook led up in the seventh inning and the losers scored three runs, making the final score 7 to 3. Five runs in the second half of the game for the Ashbury boys. They got two more in the fourth inning for no reason at all.

The summaries:
Ashbury 050 200 0-7
Reformed 000 000 3-3
Cook and Layman; Nisely and B. Howland
U. B. 010 000 0-1
Forest Lawn 000 003 3-3
Zumpert and Noble; B. Deaton and C. Deaton
Christians 000 212 000 2-7
Presbyterians 220 001 000 1-6
Amick and Middleton; Walker and Perry
Lutherans 201 200 000 02-7
Lee Street 010 100 000 01-6
Koehnepfer and C. Talbot; Richards and Conkle.

Slavery and anti-slavery never could argue the matter into silence—no one side licked the other; but boudry won't go that far.

CY STILL HITTING

Cy Williams, who has been peeling off home run drives for the Phils for many seasons hasn't shown any sign of weakening during the quakers' series with the Chicago Cubs. Way back in the misty past Cyrus, following a career at Notre Dame university, wore the Bruin regimentals.

Slump Threatens A's On Eve of Yank Series

MACKMEN DEFEATED TWO TIMES IN ROW; CARDS SUBDUED CUBS

Jakie May Loses Pitching Duel to Ray Kremer; Uhle Wins Tenth

WITHIN a few years spiltball pitchers will be only a memory, but in the meantime they continue to puzzle opposing batters with their freak delivery. Three of the handful of salubrious slingers now performing in the major leagues pitched yesterday. Clarence Mitchell and Urban Faber winning their games and John Fous Quinn losing to Faber.

Faber, who has won more victories for the foul White Sox than Quinn has turned in for the league-leading Athletics, blanked the Mackmen for eight innings and won, 6 to 1, despite a last minute splurge by the A's. Philadelphia had come clear up to June 17 without losing two games in succession—two months without a sign of a slump. If that isn't a record, it ought to be. The lead of the A's is now seven and one-half games.

Mitchell, the only left-handed spiltballer in the majors, kept the Cardinals in first place in the National league scramble by subduing the Cubs, 11 to 3. In a wild sixth inning rally, in which the Cards scored eight runs, chick Hoyer made two hits, including a home. Hoyer and Buster Gehrig are now tied for the lead in the home run marathon with 17 apiece.

Ray Kremer of the Pirates won a 2 to 1 duel from Jakie May of Cincinnati. The Bucs staying within two points of the Cards. Errors by Fritz and Walker let Pittsburgh's runs.

George Cole hung up his tenth win of the season in beating the Red Sox, 8 to 7. After the back bay crew had nuzzled the opening game of a double bill by a 6 to 5 count.

Babe Ruth Times Return To Take In Kill or Cure Series With Athletics

NEW YORK, June 15—George Ruth, alias Herman, the man with the most magnificent headache in the world, is to come up out of the doldrums, a new man and maybe a better one, and pour himself a "uniform full of ball player, perhaps today but almost surely tomorrow. His entrance cue has been timed perfectly for the "kill or cure" series with the Athletics, starting on Friday, the Babe having been cast to play the boy hero, Joe Gam, who has been home in time to save the family estate from Connie Mack, the grasping squire.

I think the original role called for broad comedy, since it looked at one time as though there would be nothing to save, except maybe the amusement tax. The Athletics were nine games in front on Saturday night; today, this has been cut down to 7 1/2 and, with a five-game series coming up, the situation is almost as serious as a black necktie. It may be that the Athletics, always a bit precocious and whimsical, have selected this disadvantageous moment to have their first slump of the year.

CAREY LEGION NINE DEFEATED BY GALION

Championship of Sub-District Resting Between Marion, Galion and Mt. Gilead

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Galion	2	0	1.000
Marion	1	0	1.000
Carey	1	1	.500
Mt. Gilead	1	1	.500
Magnetic Springs	0	2	.000

Galion Tankers, champions of the Crawford County American Legion tournament, went into the lead of the sub-district tourney by defeating Carey at Galion last Saturday, 12 to 4 errors proving to be the downfall of the visitors who have won one and lost a game in the sub-district.

The Marion Eagles have won their only game against Magnetic Springs last Saturday and should register their second when they go to Carey next Saturday. The championship of the district will probably be decided when Galion and Mt. Gilead come here for successive games on June 20 and July 6. Mt. Gilead has the best hurler in the league in Carey who lost his only start against Galion two weeks ago through errors. He whiffed 25 men in 12 innings and gave only two hits.

The score of the Galion Carey game:
Carey 000 020 020—4 11 6
Galion 010 410 12—12 12 2
Jesko and Jacoby; Shabill and Calender.

Below London is a natural underground reservoir of water stretching about thirty miles north and south of the city, and the same distance east and west.

HOWEVER, you can go and bet on the idea that any club playing .333 baseball through five weeks of a major league race, is due to lose a few ball games, starting soon and ending somewhat later if the Philadelphia ball club is to have its inevitable slump now, so much the worse for it and the better for league interest. It will mean that a rare has been made out of a pageant.

No particular harm will be done anybody. The Athletics will win the pennant, narrow, and after the happy, the Bronx will then go home and turn its attention to something important.

Still, 25 out of 30 is liable to get some of its appeal when one has won two out of the last two. And that 7 1/2 game lead with a five-game series coming up has a strangely ominous sound.

It was back in 1921 that precisely the same statistics were available before a September series involving the Pirates and Giants. The former were paying themselves off on the pennant for being 7 1/2 games to the good with the end of the season three weeks away, they couldn't go wrong, could they? Maybe they couldn't, all I know is that they did.

The Giants swept the first games before them, sent the Pirates out of town behind a 2 1/2 game lead and then caught and passed them within a week, never again to be headed so much for history. It may have nothing to do with the present or it may have all to do with it. I simply happen to feel that it is not altogether reassuring sign that the Athletics are losing ball games even before they get to the Yankee stadium.

McIntire, hurling for Morral in the Tri County league, was too strong in the pinches and the Erie railroad line of Marion was defeated 7 to 3 on the Morral diamond Sunday afternoon. The winners scored three runs in the first frame and cinched the game in the seventh.

The score:
Erie 000 012 001-4
Morral 301 080 214-7
Thompson and W. Dullin; McIntire and Koontz.

Dr. Dickson's Compound Diuretic is guaranteed to relieve disorders of the kidneys and bladder—if it does not, your druggist will gladly refund the purchase price of 50c. Go to the nearest drug store now—buy a box of this time-tested Diuretic—take as directed and if you are not satisfied with results, ask for the return of your money. Dancers! Avoid Perspiration Odor Strong body odor is always present during exercise and excitement of dancing. You may not notice it but your partners do.

Don't risk giving offense. Use Kora Konia—the soothing deodorant. A remarkable new powder discovered by Mennen—producers of the finest shaving creams, talcums and baby powders. It neutralizes perspiration acids and prevents odor. Regular application keeps you free from odor all day and evening. Kora Konia also absorbs excess perspiration; avoids unpleasant moisture, thus preventing injury to garments. Soothes, heals raw, rubbed skin. Ends burning and itching. Be free from perspiration odor all summer. Apply Kora Konia liberally and frequently. Best deodorant too, for sanitary pads. Apply to feet to keep perspiration acids from injuring hose. Distorted Evidence

No amount of statistical evidence, distorted in an effort to mislead the public, can disprove government figures showing the gain of Lucky Strike to be greater than the combined increase of all other cigarettes. The public will be served and this is proof, indeed, that regardless of price, you actually get more in Lucky Strike than any other cigarette can offer. Its perfect blend of fine tobaccos gives pure smoking delight. Its exclusive, secret toasting process guarantees the tobaccos free from irritants and impurities and, in the opinion of 20,679* physicians, makes Lucky Strike less irritating than other cigarettes.

The leading experts advise one soap and only one... to safeguard beauty

"Palmolive Soap is a powerful factor for promoting perfect skin hygiene. Other soaps, even more expensive ones, owing to their caustic nature, often irritate the epidermis and, in the end, ruin and spoil it."

Melchior L. D'Assie

PARIS! The natural place to go for advice on beauty! And here all the leaders in Parisian beauty culture agree on one soap as best, Palmolive!

They echo the opinion of the distinguished Lina Cavallieri, that "Palmolive, by cleansing the pores thoroughly, leaves the skin in a smooth, healthy condition."

In America, alone, there are over 14,000 beauty specialists who advocate this palm and olive oil facial soap... the greatest professional endorsement any soap ever had!

"I recommend to my clients the soap of palm and olive oils which, separately, have great cosmetic value—and which, in the blending of Palmolive Soap, are doubly effective."
